Biographical Information

Award-winning author Hank Quense lives in Bergenfield, NJ with his wife Pat. They have two daughters and five grandchildren. He writes humorous fantasy and scifi stories. On occasion, he also writes an article on fiction writing or book marketing but says that writing nonfiction is like work while writing fiction is fun. He refuses to write serious genre fiction saying there is enough of that on the front page of any daily newspaper and on the evening TV news.

Presently, Hank has 17 published books, both fiction and nonfiction. He's had over 50 short stories published and dozens of articles

He and his wife, Pat, usually vacation in another galaxy or parallel universe. They also time travel occasionally when Hank is searching for new story ideas.

AWARDS

Falstaff's Big Gamble

Wise Bear Books in 2013, as the best fantasy satire of the year.

Military Recognition

Eight years ago, to show support for our armed services and to provide a measure of entertainment, Hank put together a collection of ten humorous short stories, all previously published, for the troops to read and spent considerable time in distributing it to our troops

For his efforts, the US Army sent a him a letter thanking him for his contribution. The letter was signed by the Army Chief of Staff and the Secretary of the Army. Hank also received a Certificate of Appreciation at the same time.

Tales From Gundarland

Readers' Favorite gave this book an award in its fantasy category and EPIC short listed it as the best anthology of 2010.
